Report: Helene was 7th costliest storm on record

Dinah Voyles Pulver
USA TODAY

The National Hurricane Center has released its report on Hurricane Helene, finding it claimed the lives of 248 people and caused $78.7 billion in damages.

Helene becomes the seventh-costliest storm on record, the hurricane center reported, behind Katrina, Harvey, Ian, Maria, Sandy and Ida. It's the fourth-deadliest storm to make landfall in the mainland U.S. since 1950, behind Katrina (1,392), Audrey (416), and Camille (256).

Its high winds, tornadoes and torrential rain injured 117 and forced the high water rescues of more than 2,700 people, the center reported. It also triggered power outages to 7.4 million customers Sept. 26-28.

All along Helene's path, from its landfall northwest of Steinhatchee, Florida, on Sept. 26 and through Tennessee and North Carolina, the long, slow recovery continues, as countless people try to put lives back together torn asunder by the wind and floods.

Helene's strongest sustained winds over land were measured 35 miles inland in Live Oak, Florida, at 74 mph, thanks to an instrument from Texas Tech research.

Helene's massive size, intensity and fast forward motion delivered wind gusts much farther inland than most hurricanes and sent a devastating storm surge along more than 550 miles of Florida coastline.

When it was still over the water and strengthening off the coast of Southwest Florida, Helene was larger than 90% of historical systems of similar strength and location, the hurricane center reported.

That may be surprising, but wind gauges can be few and far between in rural areas, so higher winds might have occurred but not been measured, hurricane experts have said.

Helene's central low pressure set all time records for lowest minimums as it moved through Florida and Georgia.

The storm's large wind fields also

Damage and debris is seen in the aftermath of Hurricane Helene in Steinhatchee, Florida, on Sept. 27. In Florida's Big Bend region, a storm surge inundation of 12 feet to 16 feet occurred from just west of Keaton Beach through Steinhatchee, devastating communities.

TREVOR HUGHES/USA TODAY FILE

sent its storm surge spilling over a much larger area than many hurricanes. Storm surge – an abnormal rise in water above normal tide levels – is defined in the hurricane center reports as feet above ground level. Elevated storm surges were recorded from Panama City Beach on Florida's Panhandle more than 550 miles southward to the Florida Keys.

High tides also occurred on the east coast as far north as Charleston, South Carolina.

In Florida's Big Bend region, a storm surge inundation of 12 feet to 16 feet occurred from just west of Keaton Beach through Steinhatchee, devastating communities.

"Aerial imagery collected by the NOAA Remote Sensing Division shows that many homes were removed from foundations leaving only the slab and stilts where the elevated home once was," the report stated. "Entire homes appear to have been picked up by the storm surge and moved to remote wetlands."

The high water mark in Dekle Beach was converted to 15.3 feet above the mean higher high water line.

MIDWAY ROAD WORK

$71M LAST PHASE OF WIDENING TO START IN 2 YEARS

BY CHARLES CALOIA | Correspondent

The Florida Department of Transportation is forging ahead with the continued widening of Midway Road/County Road 712 to ease traffic from industrial, residential and commercial spaces alike and give long-eluded access to the state Turnpike.

FDOT presented the third phase of the Midway Road widening project that spans approximately 0.78 miles between Jenkins Road and Glades Cut-Off Road on March 25 and March 27.

The project is projected to build out from summer 2027 to March 2030 at an estimated cost of $71.4 million, according to FDOT.

The amenities of the new widening will match the project's second phase of 0.785 miles between Selwitz Road and Jenkins Road, including pedestrian/bicy-

At Farmers Market, an eye on future of Marina Square

BY REGINA MARCAZZO-SHARER | Staff Writer

Shoppers at the Farmers Market in Fort Pierce last Saturday had an extra booth to visit at the bustling Marina Square.

Besides countless choices of what to eat, merchandise to buy and music to enjoy, visitors had the opportunity to offer input on the future of the space.

Market-goers who stopped by the booth were given five red dots and asked to place them on a large posterboard featuring 22 choices of items they'd like to see at what will become Marina Park. The question was, "What elements do you think are most important to consider in the design of the Fort Pierce Downtown Park?"

"We're starting to listen and re-envisioning the park," said Director of Landscape Architecture Viviana Castro, PLA, of Inspire Placemaking Collective, a consultant for the city project who was running the booth. The project is all part of the November 2022 Downtown Master Plan, with phase 1 of the plan to transform Marina Square into Marina Park.

The square is 6.3 acres of publicly owned land located between Avenue A (Marina Way) and Orange Avenue, and home of the weekly Downtown Farmers Market. The square is presently used for parking, providing about 175 cle access and improved drainage.

The project's centerpiece will be a new overpass bridge made up of six 11-foot-wide motor lanes – four westbound and two eastbound – FDOT schematics show. Bike lanes and multi-use pedestrian access will border the outermost lanes.

The two central westbound lanes on the bridge will provide access to a new on-ramp to the southbound Turnpike directly east of Winterlakes Park.

An offramp will also be built from the northbound Turnpike into an expansion of Corporate Way near the Larry D. Lee Public Health Building, 5150 Milner Dr., that will also support signal lighting. Building this portion will necessitate the closure of both driveways at Midway Scape Supply, 5600 W Midway Road.

Noise suppression walls will also be built between each Turnpike ramp and bordering neighborhoods, according to FDOT schematics.

Representatives from FDOT District Four and the Quest Corporation of America marketing firm of Land O'Lakes held two meetings on Midway Road's third phase at Indian River State College's Treasure Coast Public Safety campus, 4800 Kirby Loop Road: one virtual on March 25, and one in-person March 27.

The in-person meeting attracted about 30 people, including members of the public, to discuss Midway Road's further buildout including the Torino Parkway intersection.

The corridor bottlenecks access between much of north Port St. Lucie near industrial facilities like the CEMEX concrete plant, 6100 W Midway Road, and the county landfill, 6120 Glades Cut-Off Road.

It also levies rush-hour traffic between U.S. 1, I-95 and the Midway Business Park, home to a 1.1-million-square-foot Amazon Distribution Center operating since last July.

The McGregors – mother Caryn, 50, and son Jayden, 16 – spoke with FDOT about the Midway/Torino intersection near their home by Winterlakes Park and the heavy work/commuter traffic that trickles through daily.

Jayden, a junior at Fort Pierce Central High, keeps up with municipal releases from the city, county and FDOT with the aid of geometry teacher and Individualized Education Program (IEP) coordinator Melissa Homan.

The heavy retail and industrial traffic in the phase three area faces little easement with "trains crossing" at Glades Cut-Off Road on top of construction vehicles at Midway/Torino that can intimidate drivers, he explained.

"We've seen a lot of progress on Midway Road and East Torino," Jayden said. "The construction there, however, can get pretty scary for some of these people."

"I don't know what got him into it," Caryn McGregor said about her son's interest in local infrastructure. "He told me he wanted better roadways. You feel lucky when you're not one of those people that's in rush hour before it's rush hour," she added about Midway/Torino.

The project looks to draw upon past successes five years after FDOT widened 1.8 miles of Midway Road from U.S. 1 to Selvitze Road, as Richard Pancoast, a resident near Oleander Ave., attested to.

"It turned out beautiful," Pancoast, 75, opined. "It was really tough getting through it; a lot of construction, they did it in two phases so it was a lot of time, but it came out really nice."

Pancoast worked for four decades out of the post office at 5600 W Midway Road where aging asphalt is now being removed from "two lanes" with frequent congestion that led to half-hour commutes from U.S. 1 as early as 5 a.m., he recalled.

Midway Road's balancing act endures further freight traffic from retail facilities like the 1.2-million-square-foot Walmart Distribution Center, 4009 S Jenkins Road, that broke ground in 2004. "That was, really, the beginning of the west end of Midway Road getting congested," he said.

Pancoast also referred to the improved Turnpike access that could reach further north of Midway Road, as a proposed expansion to eight lanes between Jupiter and Fort Pierce lies on the table, state records show.

"I suggested that they should carry that right lane all the way north to I-95," he said about the proposed Corporate Way offramp. "What entryway they have for the Turnpike, they can have a split further north."

Phase two of Midway Road's widening between Jenkins Road and Selvitze Road continues apace after incurring over 160 days of delays since last April 1, FDOT records show. ■

Midway/Turnpike
I do like the plans for the partial interchange construction for the Tpk @ Midway, but I wonder how long it will be before the other half of the interchange has to be built.

Midway/Torino
The westbound left-turning traffic has been the pain of my contentment. I fully believed that a new <sup>westbound</sup> left-turn was needed immediately, but I understand the reasoning behind simply extending the existing left-turn lane.

Good morning Mr. McGregor,

Thank you for attending the Midway Road Widening Project. In response to your question:

I do like the plans for the partial interchange construction for the Turnpike at Midway Road, but I wonder how long it will be before the other half of the interchange has to be built?

The Florida Turnpike Enterprise has advised:

The design of the remainder of the Midway Road interchange, which includes widening Florida's Turnpike, is planned to start in Fiscal Year 2026. However, right-of-way and construction for this future project (FPID 446580-1) is not funded in the Florida Department of Transportation's Adopted 5-year work program (Fiscal Years 2025 to 2029).

Please feel free to follow us on our project webpage for further updates:
